Re: CCSSEF Board of Directors Elections

Kindly consider this memo formal written notification of my declaration of candidacy for a position on the Cheshire County Sport Shooting Education Foundation's Board of Directors.

If elected to the BoD, I would endeavor to advance the interests of the Foundation by expanding upon the existing mission to train and educate members of the community as well as our partners in the law enforcement sector, and assist in fundraising activities to offset operational and development costs associated with the indoor shooting facility.

My bio, written for me while serving as Master of Ceremonies for a reception with Sheriff Richard Mack follows.

Keith Hanson is an outspoken and unapologetic nationally-broadcast conservative talk radio show host, broadcasting from his home station on Nashua, New Hampshire's WSMN (95.3 FM & 1590 AM). Having been labeled by New Hampshire Democrat Party chair Ray Buckley as quote "New Hampshire's very own right-wing conservative shock jock," Keith broadcasts the nationally-syndicated "The Keith Hanson Show" which kicks off at 9:00 pm weekday nights. Previously, Keith was the host of the "First Look" morning drive radio program, which aired from 6:00 am to 9:00 am weekdays on New Hampshire's WNTK and WUVR, and the regional New England "Daily Review" program airing from 2:00 pm until 4:00 on Nashua's WSMN.

Keith is the past President and Vice President of Oath Keeper's Florida state chapter, and also served as the co-director of training for Florida Carry, the sunshine state's sole gun rights lobbying organization. He currently sits on the advisory board of the New Hampshire Firearms Coalition, where he advises on matters relating to firearms training, legislative oversight, and public relations. He previously served as the Chairman of the Sullivan County, NH Republican Committee, and was a candidate for Republican Party Chairman of the New Hampshire GOP.

With a 15-plus year law enforcement career in a variety of capacities, Keith Hanson now trains federal, state and local law enforcement officers, currently maintaining three federal law enforcement active shooter response instructor ratings along with instructor credentials in three tactical counterterrorism disciplines. He is actively certified as a law enforcement firearms trainer with multiple instructor ratings in tactical pistol, tactical patrol rifle and tactical shotgun, basic SWAT operator, breaching techniques, SWAT/combat medic and Pre-Hospital Trauma Life Support (PHTLS). He is also a court-recognized expert witness focusing on law enforcement training, use-of-force, and criminal and civil liability surrounding use-of-force applications.

He currently serves as Director of Law Enforcement training with Critical Dynamics, Inc., a privately-held NH-based training and consulting company. In addition to the delivery of comprehensive nationally-accredited tactical small arms and operational training curriculums, Keith is actively involved with a consortium of educators and psychologists in the development of stress induction, immersion, and inoculation training curriculums for federal and state-level law enforcement officers.
